FANWOOD

On Sunday afternoon, there were gathered in the girls study hall quite a number of Fanwood graduates and others of the deaf to attend the unveiling of a bronze plaque in memory of the late Edwin A. Hodgson, who was connected with Fanwood for upwards fifty years as instructor of printing.

The ceremonies were opened by Superintendent Skyberg, who introduced Rev. Father Purtell, pastor to the Catholic deaf of the city, who gave the invocation. Superintendent Skyberg then introduced Mr. Anthony Capelle, who was Mr. Hodgson's printing assistant for many years, who spoke as follows:—

In ancient times, the great were honored by statutes of marble, erected to their memory. Today—we also commemorate the memory of our great—in bronze.

One of our best loved—one who devoted his life to uplifting the deaf, Mr. Edwin Allan Hodgson, was most worthy of such an honor.

To attempt to tell you all that Mr. Hodgson did for the deaf would be futile—he did so much. His work with the deaf is so well known.

We, his pupils, friends and associates, have in this bronze tablet, tried to show our appreciation, in a small way, for all Mr. Hodgson meant to us.

Mr. Elmer Hannan, the sculptor, made a few remarks. He designed and executed the plaque, which was made possible by the contributions of Mr. Hodgson's former pupils many other friends.

The presentation was made by Dr. Fox with the following address:—

Mr. Superintendent:

In presenting this memorial tablet to the School, in the name of the Alumni Association and other friends of our late associate, Edwin Allan Hodgson, the desire is manifest to fulfill a duty in recognition of his value as a man, an able teacher of printing, and as editor of a publication devoted to the welfare of the deaf.

Becoming deaf in young manhood, he subsequently for over half a century, gave his thoughts to advocating their cause. Deafness is a misfortune to any individual, yet in such an instance as that of our late friend, it was a fortunate happening for others, in that it led to the performance of valuable service in their behalf as a group, which, had he retained his hearing, might not have been rendered. A grave personal loss to him, thus interpreted and utilized in terms of worthy service for the benefit of others, is an admirable portraiture of his career, since it is not what such a career brings but what it leaves for the benefit of others that matters.

It will be well for the future of the deaf if the devotion, earnestness and energy that marked Mr. Hodgson's life-work as a teacher in his field of action is carried on with the same ability, courage and faithfulness he displayed. From our knowledge of the traits of his character we can now more fully realize the full meaning of the motto which ruled his views as editor those guiding lines which he placed at the head of his editorial column in the JOURNAL, and which tell us—

"He's true to God who's true to man;
Whenever wrong is done
To the humblest and the weakest
'Neath the all-beholding sun,
That wrong is also done to us,
And they are slaves most base,
Whose love of right is for themselves
And not for all the race?"

At the conclusion of the address, Randall B. Tucker, a grandson of Mr. Hodgson, unveiled the tablet, revealing a handsome bronze plaque bearing a bas-relief likeness of Mr. Hodgson and suitably inscribed. The acceptance was made by Superintendent Skyberg who said:—

Members of the Family of Mr. Edwin Allan Hodgson, and His Friends:

I am very happy to have you come to our School this afternoon, for your coming is to pay tribute in loving memory to one who gave the School long years of devoted service.

The treasured memories of a man's life are not necessarily that life itself, its many activities and the type of work in which the years were spent. It is the things which are left behind after a man's life on earth is ended. Certainly such is true in the case of our beloved friend, Edwin Allan Hodgson. The splendid influence which he brought to bear on the lives of young boys who came to him as students of printing, is such as will live with them always. His kindly advice and the generous activities which he so liberally dispensed among his associates are as the warmth of a sunny day on the hearts touched by him.

It was worth a great deal to be a friend of Mr. Hodgson. It was worth a great deal to know him and to love him. No wonder you, his deaf friends and former pupils have wanted to give of your small means to preserve a great treasured memory.

In the bronze plaque which is to be unveiled today, a gift by you to the New York School for the Deaf, we will always have with us a constant source of inspiration to do the best things in life.

We miss Mr. Hodgson, but we shall always remember him.

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the New York School for the Deaf, I am very happy to accept this bronze plaque of Mr. Edwin Allan Hodgson, presented by you in loving memory of his devoted service to the School and to the deaf of America. Thank you most kindly for your splendid gift.

The recitation of a hymn by Miss Anna Klaus closed the ceremonies.

It was originally intended to place the tablet on the walls of the rotunda in the main building, but due to construction work being done there and in the boys wing, a temporary place was used in the girls study hall.

Present at the unveiling were Mr. Hodgson's two daughters, Miss Florence Ehrhardt and Mrs. Beatrice Tucker; his two grandsons, Edwin Hodgson Tucker and Randall B. Tucker, besides several close relatives and friends of the family.

Peter Mitchell Deceased

On Friday morning, October 26th, Mr. Peter Mitchell died at St. Francis Hospital, where he had been admitted a few days previous. He had been ill for three weeks, but was believed to be getting better, until a paralytic stroke necessitated his removal to the hospital.

Mr. Mitchell was sixty-six years old. He was educated at the Fanwood School, graduating from the High Class. He was also a pupil of the printing school and successfully held situations in various city offices for many years, being a member of the Typographical Union.

In his school days Mr. Mitchell was quite an athlete on the cinderpath. He took quite a prominent part in the social affairs of the city, and was well liked because of his jovial nature. He was a member of Brooklyn Division, No. 23, N. F. S. D., which was represented at the funeral by President Friedwald and several brothers. Dr. Fox represented the JOURNAL.

Funeral services were held at the Funeral Home at 77 West 125th Street on Monday afternoon, by Rev. Dr. Charles B. Ackley, of St. Mary's Episcopal Church. There was also a short service Sunday evening at the parlors, where friends called to pay their last respects to the departed. The body lay in repose in a beautiful oaken couch casket, surrounded by many floral tributes of asters and chrysanthemums. Interment was at Kensico Cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Mitchell are his wife (Leah Goldstein, also of Fanwood), and one son, Edward, who was married last April.

Alexander Moves

Mr. Alexander L. Pach, after many years in a citadel atop of Washington Heights opposite the tall tower and reservoir at Highbridge Park, decided to move down to the "Gay Fifties" and is now domiciled at 421 West 57th Street. Incidentally the city is now tearing up the reservoir to be made into a swimming pool and it is reported that the tower will come down also. Apparently that landmark is no longer needed.

NEW YORK CITY

ST. ANN'S NOTES

The V. B. G. A. enlivened things in the Guild House of St. Ann's Church by an impromptu card party on Tuesday evening, October 23d. They have decided to have their Tuesday evening socials this year on the fourth Tuesday of each month. Mrs. Ben Baca and Miss Alice Atkinson were hostesses this time. Many new faces were seen, and several tables of bridge were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Johanna Jeynes and Mr. B. B. Williams. Tea and cake were served after the tournament, the pouring being done by Miss Anna Feger.

The Rev. G. C. Braddock conducted a service for the deaf in Grace Church, Elizabeth, N. J., on Sunday afternoon, October 21st, on the invitation of the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Sweeney. About thirty-five deaf people were present, most of them from Newark. An attempt was made to find some deaf living in Elizabeth, but several remained unknown. Another service will be held in the same place at some future date, and any deaf living nearby are urged to send their addresses to St. Ann's Church so that notice of these special occasions may be sent to them. Grace Church is at 221 East Jersey Street, Elizabeth, on the car line from Newark. The deaf of all faiths are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Henry Frey, the beloved father of Leopold Frey, Hannah Lowe, and Bessie F. Ciavolino, departed from this world on Friday, October 26th, at the advanced age of eighty. His death was sudden, occasioned by heart failure after a short illness from which he seemed to be recovering. Prayers were said by the Rev. G. C. Braddock Saturday evening, at the residence of the deceased in Astoria, N. Y. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon, at Machpelah Cemetery, Cypress Hills, with Mr. Robert A. Kerstetter reading the burial service. Many friends and relatives were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal Kroboth held a christening party at their home in Long Island City, Saturday afternoon, October 20th. The two youngest children, Richard Leroy and Robert Royal, were baptized by the Rev. G. C. Braddock. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Anderson stood sponsors for the former child, and the relatives of Mrs. Kroboth (nee Anna Ondrachek) for the two-months-old infant. Refreshments were served after the christening.

Mrs. Helena G. Smith and Mr. Harry T. Holmes were married on the afternoon of October 28th, at Holy Cross Church, by Father Paul of the Franciscan Order, being attended by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Schmidt, lately of Elizabeth, N. J., but now residing in the Bronx.

After supper with a party of friends at the Hollywood on Broadway, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes departed for a brief stay at Atlantic City. Upon return, they will reside at their home on St. Lawrence Avenue.

Mrs. Emma Ellin Taplin, beloved mother of John Elliot, Willis F., Lucy S., and Carrie J. Taplin, died in her eighty-third year, on Thursday, October 25th, 1934. Funeral services were held at her late home in Richmond Hill, L. I., on Saturday, October 27th. Interment was at Maple Grove Cemetery, Kew Gardens, L. I.

H. A. D.

The opening Business Meeting held Sunday afternoon, October 21st, was excellently attended. Twenty-five applications for membership to the H. A. D. were acted favorably by the Board of Governors and unanimously accepted by the Association at this meeting. The names of the new members are: Mesdames Matilda S. Teweles, Anna Grossman, Sadie Sonnenstrahl, G. Chaimowitz; Misses Kate Witzler, Cholly M. Teweles, Jane C. Teweles, Lillian Isaacson, Sally Auerbach, Ethel Koplowitz, Sylvia Schwartz, Anna Weiss, Florence R. Brown, Clara Cohen, Miriam Gordon, Helen Rosen, Betty Betesh and Rose Mishnun; Messrs. Abraham Greenspun, Joseph Nuch, Arthur Helfgott, Benjamin Moritz, Lester Naftaly, Sam Grossman.

In the evening a motion picture program, headed by the feature film "Bad Sister," starring Conrad Nagel and (Miss) Sidney Fox, was presented to a good sized crowd. A two-reel Ben Turpin comedy entitled "Taking the Count," Southern California-Pittsburgh football game, and Jack Dempsey in "Fight and Win," wound up the program.

Owing to the use of the Community Centre by someone else on Sunday, November 18th, the Regular Business Meeting will take place on the first Sunday, November 4th, at 3 P.M. A movie program, as usual, will be shown in the evening.

H. A. D. will hold an Armistice Dance on Saturday evening, November 10th, at 8 o'clock, in the Ball Room, 210 West 91st Street. All are welcome. There will be a slight charge for admission. For particulars apply to Mr. Moses Loew, chairman of this affair.

Misses Florence R. Brown and Sally Auerbach were respectively named manager and captain of the girls' basketball team! Last Wednesday, October 24th, seven men answered Coach Kruger's roll call for the initial basketball practice of the season.

B. H. S. D.

On October 14th, after the meeting, a large number were entertained at the Hallowe'en party, which they greatly enjoyed. Many fine gifts were given to the winners of the various games.

October 19th there were about 75 attending, and Judge Sylvester Sabatino gave a very interesting lecture. He was asked for another lecture in the near future.

The Brooklyn Hebrew Society of the Deaf, under the auspices of the National Council of Jewish Women, Brooklyn Section, met at the Hebrew Educational Society Building at Sutter and Hopkinson Avenues, Brooklyn on Friday October 26th, 1934.

Following the regular Friday night services, Miss Anna Kaufman, an Ellis Island and Port Representative, lectured upon immigration and its trend. The speaker dealt not only with immigration, but also with the requirements of citizenship in order to aid those who are not citizens in becoming worthy and useful Americans.

The chairman of the evening was Mrs. Gladys M. Shepard, of the Brooklyn section of the National Council. Later in the season Mrs. Shepard will bring Magistrate Jeanette L. Brill. Watch for the date.

On the evening of November 10th, Dr. T. F. Fox will give a reading of "Marquis of Mandelay" at the Guild House of Trinity Church, Newark, New Jersey.

CHICAGOLAND

The ninth annual ball and card party of Chicago Division, No. 106, at Logan Square Masonic Temple, October 13th, was financially successful for the first time, compared with the past depression affairs of same ilk. The crowd was larger than ever, counting less than 350. The music was pronounced by the deaf as super-excellent. Strange to say, even if they are deaf, they can judge the music, a fact that reminds all of us that deafness is purely relative unless it is total. The music was flung at the crowd by a colored orchestra, that realized that the deaf were not to be fooled with indifferent sounds. One of them proved honest: he picked up four single dollars on the floor, lost by someone, and asked bystanders if they had lost any money. A woman discovered her money gone, and looked down the floor. They met. She received it and he was rewarded with some money.

The card tables were filled up to capacity, so that those that came late were disappointed. They, however, made up for it with dancing and social amenities. The two separate contests, never before tried by the division, were given for the first time, and probably will never be offered again in all future. They were for the best dressed and for the best dancing pair. A contest of this kind is, in the very nature of it, most delicate, as it is impossible to please all the people at the same time in one respect.

What constitutes the best dress—for men and the other for women? what constitutes the best dancing pair? When one asks himself these questions, he comes to realize that there are so many angles to them that they prove but broad generalizations admitting of too many different and even opposite answers, and yet all of them may be correct. In matter of dress, if it's an evening dress, whether for man or woman, it is admissible. If it is in conformity with the fall style, it is correct. If it is a question of a whole appearance, the coiffure, facial make-up, nails and shoes—an ensemble—it cannot be denied. Thus the hearing judges, who were strangers to the general run of the people, came in for hard knocks and ridicule.

In matter of the dancing pair contest, it was still more unfortunate, as the hearing judges, not knowing of another contest to come, left the hall without the knowledge of the committee. In quandry, they had to select in a hurry from among the deaf, three judges, Miss Betty Ploushinski and Messrs. Ben Ursin and William Maiworm, brave enough, for this thankless umpiring. The first two of them had some degree of hearing. Whether they were qualified to judge accurately of foot synchronization with music beats, not the deaf but the hearing alone can tell. However, they had two rules of their own, by which they stood, and in which they probably were far from wrong—namely, the utter absence of missteps or foot slips and the grace of movement. In the opinion of the writer, the final winners fairly measured up to these standards. Yet the selection was received with such poor sportsmanship that the Division now regrets having sponsored these kind of contests.

Dr. W. H. German, the father of Mrs. Herbert Gunner, received honors which he richly deserved. He served as secretary of the Columet Park District for thirty-one years, during which time he missed but one of over five hundred meetings held. In recognition of this long faithful service, the commissioners have perpetuated his name by changing the name of Prospect Park, at Pryor and Prospect Avenues, to William H. German Park. Such honor as this was voted in the latter part of September, and was presented to Dr. German in the form of a resolution, properly engrossed. The resolution took cognizance of his "great aid and assistance to the trustees of the district and to the community at large—his faithfulness, efficiency, promptitude and courtesy in all matters."

Unexpectedly, the answer came from L. S. Cherry to our casual query in a previous column as to the disposal of his five puppies, which, after all, is surprisingly not problematical with him. Let him tell it in his own words, as written to the Chicago Pen-Pusher:

"Not many know much about our dogs and still fewer know that we even possess one, so we are going to tell you something about them.

"We have two female Boston terriers, mother and daughter, whose pedigree is one of the best you can find around here. Were they ordinary dogs, we would not waste our time and money on them. Recently we bred the younger one to a prize-winning Boston, which has established its reputation as a sire by producing one that has become an international champion. The five pups is the result.

"The question that bothers us is not how to dispose of the pups but how soon it would be wise to dispose of them. Every pup in the litter is above average in excellence and all are in demand especially by breeders. The older the pup is at time of sale the higher the price for it, providing, of course, it does not develop reversal of form.

"At the World's Fair Dog Show, in the Coliseum, October 20th to 21st, the sire of our pups was adjudged the best stud dog in the Boston Terrier class. This has made the pups all the more desirable. The owner of this dog is exhibiting and advertising our pups to give his dog still more prestige.

"Of the five, three are about to be sold—just as soon as they can be separated from their mother. They will net us an average of about $35 apiece. The other two are such fine prospects as show dogs that we are going to keep them and farm them out. Once they become blue ribbon winners, they will bring us anything from $100 up, depending on how easily they win at shows."

"In reality, it is my wife, who is the dog fancier of the family. We own everything in common, but it was her idea of acquiring and breeding dogs and she herself has attended to all the details of the hobby. The dogs are registered in the American Kennel Club, under the ownership of Mrs. Cherry, and she is recorded as the breeder."

The former Miss Esther Budnitsky left Chicago for New York City, September 27th, accompanied by her mother, brother and sister. On October 6th, there was a formal wedding at Gluckterns Hall, 80 Norfolk Street, where Charles Honig and Esther Budnitsky were married. They now live in Brighton Beach, N. Y. It will be recalled that they first met each other via N. A. D. convention of last summer at New York City. The N. A. D. ought to have been remembered with a slice of wedding cake.

F. Hinrichs wishes to change the hours designated for the coming horseback riding party for Saturday, November 3d, from 2 to 4 P.M. to 4 to 7, instead. The address of the Edgebrook Riding Stable, is 5879 North Central Avenue.

National Hearing Week was observed, beginning October 14th, by the American Federation for the Hard of Hearing. As deafness often can be prevented if discovered in time, early detection of signs of deafness in children especially is emphasized.

In conjunction with the week's activities, the Chicago Woman's Club sponsored an all-day exhibit of handwork of young boys and girls in the Victory Workshop of the Haven School, 1472 Wabash Avenue, Monday, October 15th. In that evening, there was a dinner, where Dr. John A. Lapp, member of the labor board of petroleum industries spoke on "Rehabilitation and Employment for the Hard of Hearing."

OHIO

The Husking Bee at the Ohio Home was a fine success, and the weather being just right to be out of doors, attracted quite a number from out of town. Among those were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Albert, of Dayton; Mr. David Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Fox and Mr. Redman, of Newark; Mr. James Naylor, of Barnesville; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wright, of Mt. Gilead. Quite a good bit of husking was done. As a larger crowd came than was expected, there was not quite enough food prepared. Mr. W. Shafer and Mr. Inman had charge of the lunch and Mr. and Mrs. Neutzling managed the games. A weiner roast was one of the attractions. All who attended reported having enjoyed the afternoon and evening.

To allow everyone to root for the football team, all the classes, except the beginners, were excused from school so the pupils could go to Franklin Park, where a game between the O. S. S. D. and the Richwood team took place. And what hooting there was when the game closed with the score of 49 to 0 in favor of the deaf boys. Coach Miller wore a big smile.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson have moved from their Franklin Avenue residence and are now out in Cedarhurst, where the Neutzlings have been living for some time. Mrs. Anderson has her mother from North Dakota with her for this winter. This is the mother's first visit into Ohio, and she must like our lovely fall weather.

By building a fine porch on his landlord's house, Mr. Jesse Inman earned two months' rent. As Mr. Inman loves to do fine work, he felt he was getting his home rent free for a time.

Mr. Richard Rawlings became owner of a good 160-acre farm out in Kansas, and his friends congratulated him upon his luck. With no steady work for several years and while trying to find a job, he received word of the gift of a farm from an aged uncle. In a short time after receiving the word, he had a ticket for Osage City, Kan. Such luck comes to only a few.

Silent Olson stopped over in Columbus when returning from a business trip to Philadelphia and New York. He visited the school and was quite surprised to see the many changes for the better. Mr. Olson is in the poultry business at Danville, Ky., and some of his broilers reach the New York market.

Mr. David Friedman, of Cleveland, enjoying a vacation, stopped in Columbus long enough last Thursday to greet his friends and to see how his alma mater was progressing. He visited the Home and was a guest there overnight. He is still at his job in Cleveland as a chemist. Sorry I missed meeting you, David.

Mr. Eugene Lee, a student at the school two years ago, surprised his friends with post-cards from Glendale, Cal., where he is now located.

Miss Katherine Toskey spent the week-end with friends in Cincinnati and returned to school Monday, the 22d.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Weber, of Cincinnati, spent a few days in Columbus recently as guests of the latter's mother.

Mr. Snyder, of Dayton, reports that most of the deaf there are still working on part time in the different factories. The Frigidaire Company, where five deaf persons worked, expected to reopen Monday, after several weeks of idleness.

Mr. and Mrs. Croson and family, of Columbus, were guests of the Alberts in Dayton for a week. Mrs. Croson had the pleasure of being a guest at the meeting of the Dayton Ladies' Aid Society. She is active in the Columbus Ladies' Aid Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Pershing, of Springfield, were recently in Middleport, Ohio, to visit Mrs. Pershing's daughter, Mrs. Swain (Nellie Gillespie). Mrs. Swain is chief supervisor for the Meigs County Relief Bureau. Upon their return, the Pershings visited another daughter at Worthington, Mrs. Russell Moore.

Mrs. Frank Redington, of Springfield, had the pleasure of visiting Mrs. Arthur Meehan in Chicago and had a wonderful time, as Mrs. Meehan knows how to entertain her Ohio friends.

Mr. Thomas Landon, a well-known deaf man of Marion, Ohio, died in September. He was buried in the Marion Cemetery. He was educated in the Indiana School and married an Ohio lady, Miss Raush. They had lived in Marion for over twenty-five years. He was an uncle of Mr. Milton Huebner, of Marion. He is survived by his wife, a sister and two brothers.

The following letter will correct the wrong reports given out at various times about Mr. Hays' will:

Athens, O., Oct. 18, 1934.

To the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL:

During the last year there have been so many reports concerning the distribution of Mr. Will Hays' property that I wish this accurate account published.

Mr. Hays deeded his home to Mrs. Florence Bell and in return she had to provide him a home, take care of him during sickness as long as he lived—no matter how long. His money he willed to his three cousins—$1,000 apiece; to the widow of Mr. Edson Ruth, with whom he spent much of his life, he left $1,000.

To the Ohio Home at Westerville, he gave $2,000. The $500 insurance from the Fraternal Society was spent for the funeral, a steel vault, doctors' fees, trained nurse, and lettering on marker. The marker was purchased for himself at the time of his sister's death.

The relatives or no one else made any vigorous fight over the will; the reason of the distribution being so long delayed was owing to the law, which must have nine months' time.

Miss Grace Evans, of Council Bluffs, entertained the Midwest Owls at her sister's home on the afternoon of October 6th. Mrs. Effie Anderson won the prize for high score.

A "Welcome Home" party was tendered Miss Emma Maser, who returned home after a month's stay in Chicago; her friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sabin, the 6th of October. Several games were enjoyed and a delicious buffet supper was served.

Miss Maser wishes to state that it was erroneously printed in the Chicago column some time ago that she would remain there if she could get her old position back. She holds a good position as a typist in Lincoln, "out in the sticks," J. F. M.

Mr. Fred Brown, of Sheridan, Wyo., surprised the Austin Beegles by breezing in on the 11th. It was quite a reunion for Fred and Austin, who had not seen each other for twenty-two years.

Honoring Miss Maser, an all-day outing at the State Fisheries near Ashland, one of the most beautiful spots in Nebraska, was greatly enjoyed on the 14th.

Twenty friends from Omaha and Council Bluffs witnessed the Iowa-Nebraska football game at Lincoln on the 13th. Among them were the Netusils and Treukes, who after the game, partook of a nice dinner at Miss Emma Maser's. A dozen or more made a bee-line for Miss Maser's in the evening, where a jolly little party was in progress. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Will E. Sabin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Cody, Mr. and Mrs. John Chowins and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Long have moved to a duplex at 3521 Hawthorne Avenue for the winter.

The Ephpheta Club of the local Catholic Deaf gave a Bridge and Bunco party in the large basement of St. Mary Magdalene's Church Sunday evening, October 21st. There was a large crowd and cash prizes for highest scores at bridge went to Mrs. Mullin and Owen Study. Mrs. Nellie Holter won at Bunco. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. The hustling committee consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Beran, Joe Purpura, Emmett Osterlink, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Berney, Mr. and Mrs. John Tubrick and others.

Mrs. Alva L. Hurt, of Los Angeles, arrived in Omaha just before the Nebraska Convention, which she attended, and later was a guest at numerous dinners and parties in her honor. The dinners were at the homes of Mesdames Comp, Roenfeldt and Holloway in Council Bluffs, and Mesdames Blankenship, Fred Anthony, Holter, Seely, Treuke, Cuscaden, Sowell, Jackson, Fry, Macek, Hellstein, Harry Long and O'Brien. One party was at the home of Mrs. Blankenship, honoring Mrs. Hurt and Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Stuht, of Seattle, Wash. Parties were tendered her by Mesdames Macek, Seely, and Hellstein, and Mrs. Jackson with her mother, Mrs. Comp. Mrs. Hurt was the house guest of her sisters on Cuming Street. She is a popular, adaptable lady and carries her age well. She left for home on October 21st.

Mrs. O. M. Treuke was tendered a surprise party on Wednesday evening, October 16th, at her home. Mr. and Mrs. Netusil and Miss Viola Tikalsky arranged a six o'clock dinner while the Treukes were downtown. Miss Tikalsky boards at the Treuke's. On their arrival they found the dinner table prettily decorated and a palatable feast awaiting them. Later they were lured away from home and on their return Mrs. Treuke was again surprised to find some eighteen guests. This was gotten up by Miss Tikalsky. Ms. Treuke was the recipient of some lovely gifts. Four tables at Bunco was the feature of the evening, at which Mr. Netusil won the prize. Light refreshments were served.

Chas. Pettit went to Wyoming the week of October 12th, on a visit. He is taking up boxing and is scheduled to meet two opponents the first week of November and another at Hastings soon.

Abe Rosenblatt, second assistant chef at the County Hospital, has a new potato salad recipe and another, both his own inventions. "Pass them on, Abie."

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Stuht, of Seattle, Wash., were the guests of the Ed. Codys in Lincoln for a week. Mr. Stuht left for home, leaving friend wife behind for a longer visit.

Several of the Nebraska School Alumni joined up with the men teachers of the N. S. D., Monday night, October 16th, in their annual volley ball contest. There were two teams of eight on each side, and the result was a tie, 2 to 2. This is their first event.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Nick Peterson, there was a weinie roast the evening of October 20th. Since they could not use any of the city parks on account of the parks being seeded, they went to the farm home of Mr. Peterson's sister, north of Bennington. They had a splendid time in the beautiful out-of-doors till 10:30 P.M., then they went into the house and danced and wound up with refreshments in the wee sma' hours of the morn. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Chales Hitschew, Miss Katharine Kelly, Millard Bilger, Miss Clara Purpura, Robert Reicker, Joe Purpura, Misses Ethel Nelson and Viola Gleeson.

Miss Helen Zobisch, of Butler, Okla., arrived in Omaha Wednesday evening, October 24th. She is staying with relatives in South Side and visiting Mrs. George L. Revers for several days. Both attended the Oklahoma School together, so naturally they had plenty of reminiscences to relate.

Albert M. Kloppling took his family to Yutan, Nebraska, along the Platte River, early Sunday morning, October 14th. He has a cabin there and has been going out nearly every week-end, fishing and hunting. He brought his family back Sunday night and returned alone on Monday morning. With a brother, he remained till Thursday. Shot a duck on Tuesday and what a feast they had. Mr. Kloppling is a husky fellow, living on a small farm on the outskirts of Benson, where he has done truck gardening while holding a job as carpenter for the H. A. Wolf Co. with Riley E. Anthony. Since September 1st, he has been laid off, but manages pretty well in spite of a painful accident to his left hand. He is the proud father of three fine children, two boys and one girl. Mrs. Kloppling, apparently a strong, healthy woman, has a pleasing personality.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zabel have been spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John Roenfeldt in Council Bluffs, Ia., and visiting friends. Mr. Zabel left the early part of October to do carpentering on the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Chowins in Lincoln. He has been out of work for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Chowins entertained informally for Mrs. Kitty Peterson Ellis, of Los Angeles, at their home in Lincoln, on October 4th. "School days" were recalled with pleasure, and delicious refreshments were served at the close.

Deaf ladies of Lincoln are given instruction in cooking for nine weeks, on alternate Thursday evenings. A class in English has just been started for both men and women. Mrs. Nettie Barney is interpreter at each class. The classes last from 7 to 9 P.M.

High Light-spots of the Addresses of the International Congress New Jersey

Selections by Zeno

DR. HARRIS TAYLOR:

"In a cooperative sense, each (groups of executives, oralists and instructors) is attempting a specialized work for the benefit of all."

"Our foreign delegates are welcome as representatives of great friendly nations. From them we expect much information and advice on many problems in the education of the deaf."

HOWARD M. McMANAWAY:

"Present school aims are based on outworn concepts of the nature of learning and of education."

"They are based on tradition rather than any careful analysis of the needs of the individual child: they ignore the changing world."

"Present aims are general rather than specific."

"Our talk has only begun."

"As a matter of fact, most textbooks will have to be discarded."

"We cannot say that the deaf child lacks the ability to 'manage the elements of a situation through intelligent effort.' In athletics, he holds his own, asking no favors. Give him the same opportunity in other learning situations, and he will think his way out with equal efficiency."

DR. MAX A. GOLDSTEIN:

"This organization (Society of Oral Advocates) is the youngest of the national Societies of Teachers of the deaf and has its inception at Central Institute for the Deaf in 1917."

"Membership in this organization is open to all who are ready to comply with the only restriction that this society has written into its constitution, namely, that the presentation of addresses be limited exclusively to oral fields."

HERBERT E. DAY:

"For some years we have been using Paramount Sound Films once a week on a silent moving picture machine. Of course, there is no sound, but when a man is making an address, one sees the motion of his lips, and sees what a deaf person sees when he is trying to read the lips of a speaker. After seeing these films, I am more and more impressed with the difficulty a deaf person has to contend with in speech reading."

"The best speech readers I have ever known, are those who have learned to read the lips at their mothers' knees."

"The language of the schoolroom should be the language of every-day life."

"I have seen teachers use toy bedsteads and doll pillows, when all they had to do to teach language was to go to the dormitory. It seems strange, but to a child, a doll's bed is not at all the same as the bed in which he sleeps."

"I have seen teachers using pictures of robins, when there were a dozen robins running around the campus."

"I believe the deaf child should be taught to lip-read sentences, not single words."

"Hearing people do not actually hear half the words in a sentence."

"They hit the high-spots so to speak, and hear the important words in the sentence and disregard the common ones."

GRACE M. HEIDER:

"We have, of course, used the motion picture. Its advantages are obvious."

"The child who can understand most by lip-reading in every-day life, will also understand most in the motion picture."

"However, a young child who is a very good lip-reader, may easily fail to understand a sentence containing the words electricity or dinosaur."

"Miss Bruhn says, 'The lip-reader must not try to concentrate his attention to individual words but must try to grasp the meaning of the sentences as a whole.'"

JOSEPHINE B. TIMBERLAKE:

"What is our purpose in giving a child lessons in lip-reading? Is it to enable him to understand the speech of those around him? Meaningless sentences or combinations? Single words? Not at all. It is a language—sentences flung together rapidly or grammatically, in order to convey ideas."

"When we teach a child to play the piano, we give him five-finger exercises to develop his skill, and the element drills we give a lip-reader are similar to these. But when we want to judge our results with the young musician, we ask him to play a piece of music on the piano, and when we want to test his ability in lip-reading, we must demand of him understanding of spoken sentences."

"Protests to such a suggestion are inevitable, for the understanding demands a knowledge of language."

"Let us not give up too easily. The schools are doing some surprising things nowadays. In some of them, children, coming to school with no speech and no understanding of language, are learning within a year to read with complete understanding long lists of printed sentences, and to read from the lips as well."

ZENO.

(We are perhaps more surprised than annoyed, if we are told that the language, "hit high spots and disregard the common ones," implies that the stenographer had also hit high spots in the speaker's talk and that the sentences quoted from him and, in turn, used by me in this column, are not word-for-word transcripts, but just haphazard, though agreeable and convincing, combinations.

A sculptor, also, has his five-finger exercises which may bring him immortality, but be assured that behind his laurels of renown stretches a lengthening perspective of the building up of talent through knowledge and experience, oftenest by dint of never-ending study and toil for years.

To apply the same transcendental philosophy to deaf children of tender age who have no pre-school education, no knowledge, no experience and alas! nothing, compels us to pause with pale Hamlet and exclaim: "But where was this?"

In the afternoon of Sunday, October 28th, an audience of subscribers and friends attended the unveiling of a bronze memorial tablet to the late Edwin Allan Hodgson, at the New York School for the Deaf. It is the work of Mr. Elmer E. Hannan, "an artistic effort which does him great credit.

The occasion bore witness of the readiness of the deaf to render homage to the memory of those whom they recognize as their benefactors, seekers and worshippers of something they consider far better than the self-advancement of the welfare of their own fellows. He had a high idea of duty, of devotion, of self-giving; he had the heart and the patience to endure, counting it blessedness enough to spend and be spent in the cause of the uplifting of those who, as in his own case, were deprived of the blessing of hearing.

WE DIRECT particular attention to the appeal from Miss Gallaudet for aid in meeting the necessary expenses for maintaining the Gallaudet Home, founded by her father, a name beloved of old, the Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, former Rector of St. Ann's Church for the Deaf.

The Trustees are seeking to raise $50,000 "to tide over these times of stress." Won't the local deaf come forward and donate a little to add to the comfort of the aged and infirm at the Home, which supports people of several religious denominations under the management of the Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes. The call is urgent, and it is to be hoped that the responses, of whatever amount, will be speedy. Here is presented an opportunity for the deaf to show interest in a project that should appeal to us all.

FROM time to time we read commendable admonitions upon the importance, indeed, necessity of thinking, as an important part of life that has often been referred to as obsolete, a lost art; the intensive trend and rush of modern days would appear to put thinking at a discount. Daily events and the strenuous demands of the moment sometimes turn people into machines following outlined grooves of action, and apparently demanding no thought.

Serious thinking does require time in order to reach a clear understanding of any plan or project that may interest us or be necessary. To realize needs and conditions requires thought as an integral necessity of the current demands of life. To make something of our careers in the effort to meet struggles and problems, we must rely upon thinking not only as a rule but as a guide. At the present time, life is a game of hurry and haste, demanding the speed that accomplishes things. For this speed we pay toll in diminished strength and health. Our hope of the future must lead us to see the importance of thinking first, before essaying any project that requires perfection of detail and strength of accomplishment.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE

By Felix Kowalewski

Monday, October 22d, the College was honored with a visit from one of her most distinguished sons, namely Cadwallader Washburn, world-famous master of the dry-point and the etcher's art. Mr. Washburn was graduated from the Class of 1890 with a Bachelor of Arts degree, and was awarded the degree of Honorary Doctor of Science in 1924. He has devoted himself to making dry-point portraits, and his work has been so successful that his etchings are declared the finest among the works of the etchers of today, and have been even compared to the works of Rembrandt. He has led a very adventurous and interesting life, attending many art schools and studying under such famous teachers as Sorolla in Spain, and Albert Besnard in France. He has traveled almost all over the world, and was an active war correspondent in Manchuria, Japan, and Mexico. His works have been represented in the British Museum, in the Victoria and Albert Museum, London; the Ryke Museum, Amsterdam; the Honolulu Academy of Arts; Minneapolis Institute of Art, Library of Congress and the California and Minnesota State Collections. He is a member of quite a number of the leading Continental art societies of the world.

At noon that day, Mr. Washburn gave a talk before the students and Faculty in Chapel Hall, and asserted that deafness is not a handicap but an asset, and gave several illustrations from his varied experience. After the talk, he was the guest of honor at a Faculty reception at the home of Dr. Hall. He is now on his way to the Canary Islands, where he intends to remain for some time to study the habits of the sea-birds there and to collect eggs for the American Geographic Society, as well as to make some new etchings of the handful of inhabitants there.

On Wednesday afternoon, the 24th, the College was presented with an oil-painting of Chapel Hall, through the courtesy of the Associated Students' Fund Department of the men students. The painting was made by Felix Kowalewski, '37, from whom the department purchased it. It has been hung in Chapel Hall.

Saturday, October 27th, was Navy Day in Washington, and the Preparatory Class, under the chaperonage of Doctor Powrie Vaux Doctor, took in the sights at the Navy Yard. They looked over the new destroyer Faragut, and the President's yacht, then visited the Deep-Sea Diving School, and the metal casting and gun shops. The rest of the sights are too long to be enumerated, but the highlights of the tour were the air show, in which nearly a hundred planes took part, and the sham battle between a group of marines and a landing force of sailors.

Fred Cobb, P. C., was especially delighted when he met one of his friends at the Navy Yard. He had first met his friend at his home town in Missouri, and it was a surprise to meet him here in Washington. His friend comes from Turkey, and is touring the world by motorcycle.

Gallaudet went down in a disappointing defeat 12-0, at the hands of a comparatively weaker Fort Meade team. The game was lost because of carelessness during the second period, when the two touchdowns were scored.

In the first quarter, there was an exchange of punts, and Gallaudet seemed to be a much better team, breaking up the plays of the soldiers, and several times tackling them for a loss. The soldiers picked up steam in the second period, and this, combined with over-confidence on the part of our backfield, ruined the day for the Blues. A series of passes and line plunges through off-tackle brought the ball to the 20-yard stripe, where Edkins received a 15-yard pass from Vitkowski, and skipped five yards on an end run for the first touchdown of the game. Roser's placement for the extra point fell short. The second touchdown was the result of a series of errors on the part of our men. The Meade kickoff was received by one of our boys on the 20-yard stripe, but after he had eluded tacklers for 12 yards he was downed on the 32-yard line—and here made a costly fumble, the ball being instantly pounced upon by the soldiers. A first down followed by a penalty for illegal blocking of a pass brought the ball down to our 8-yard line, where Vitkowski plunged over the line for the second touchdown. A pass into the end zone for the extra point failed. The third and fourth quarter were scoreless, with the soldiers running up the most first downs, even though our team seemed to be improving. The entire backfield was replaced in the closing minutes of the game, with Drake, Hoffmeister, Stanfill, and D. Long, replacing Kuglitsch, Akin, Montgomery, and Tucker. Then followed a beautiful series of passes on the part of our boys, one sent from behind the goal line from Hoffmeister to Drake netted us 35 yards. But the final gun barked before anything further could be done. Captain Tex Gamblin, Loco Ladner, Merle Goodin, Bob Miller, Blondie Kuglitsch, and Drake and Hoffmeister made a creditable showing for the Blues, while Krazulik, Vitkowski, Edkins, and MacGill starred for the soldiers.

The coming game with American University on their field will be a Washington football classic, and it is expected a large crowd will turn out for the game. American has made quite a creditable showing on the grid this year so far, and the dopesters are unanimously predicting that the Eagles are going to have their revenge on us for the 35-0 shellacking we gave them last year. Hoki-doki, let them say that—but what's wrong with our team—nothing—we can pluck the Eagles till they scream! Drake with his sprinting runs. Hoffy with his fine punting and murderous tackling; Kuglitsch and his elusive legs; Akin with his powerful line charges; Captain Tex Gamblin—the old war horse, Norman Brown, Loco Ladner and Merle Goodin surging in as ends; and Bob Miller, Jaybee Davis, Big Tom Delp, Olaf Tollefson, and Corky McCord upholding the line—sure and they do make a swell team! So come on fellows—batter down those Eagles and bring home their feathers for souvenirs! And if you-all don't come out the winners in this Saturday's game, I've got half a dozen beds to make and two dozen rooms to sweep up!

A meeting of the Literary Society will take place in Chapel Hall, November 2d. Although the motion has not yet been made and passed, there is talk of having a short Pep meeting for the football team added to the program. The deaf of Washington and vicinity are always welcome to all meetings of the Literary Society in Chapel Hall.

Sunday morning, October 28th, the Junior Class of '36, gave the following concert before the Sunday School group in Chapel Hall:

Hymn—Brighten the Corner Where You Are
Iva Weisbrod
Talk—The World As I Want It
John Leicht
Poem—Home, Sweet Home
Dora Benoit
Prayer
L. Gorden Hirschy

The Hallowe'en Party will be held in the Old Jim on Saturday evening, November 3d. Games, dancing and refreshments will be on the program, and several prizes will be given for the best costumes. Admission will be twenty-five cents.

The Rev. Arthur D. Bryant will deliver a talk before the Sunday School group this Sunday morning, November 3d.

Baltimore, Md.

October 9th, Grand President Arthur L. Roberts and his companion, Mr. Vaughn, arrived in Baltimore from Philadelphia at 8 P.M. An hour later he appeared at the lecture-room in the Enoch Pratt, the city's main library, where a very large crowd of deaf people assembled. He gave us a summary of his preceding stopover, the home-office's affairs and answered inquiries. He urged the local division to get more new members. He is in favor of the new deal which he believes is driving the depression away on proof of more members paying their dues than in the last few years. A gift of a desk lamp was given to him as a small token of remembrance from the Baltimoreans.

A small reception was given in honor of Mr. Roberts at the Herdtfelders'. There was a short special business meeting among the members of the Endowment Fund committee and the Board of Directors with Mr. Roberts. He gave his views and the rules in regard to the local division's financial affairs.

James H. Mooney, 77 years old, appeared at Mr. A. Roberts' lecture. He had not been seen around for a good long while. He is said to be the eldest living deaf man in Baltimore. He seemed to be still strong and active.

Rev. Mr. Moylan attended the international sequi-centennial celebration of the Methodist Church, which was held in Baltimore from October 10th to 14th. His son, Judge Charles Moylan, was on the sequi-centennial commission. Our daily papers held interesting accounts of the celebration and the pageants.

October 7th, Misses McKeller and Roberts, of Overlea, were the week-end guests of the Alleys at Washington, D. C. They visited Gallaudet College.

October 6th, at our regular Frat meeting, we were surprised to see Abe Stern, who came here from Detroit. He is a native of Maryland. He is employed in the Buick factory, which is now closed for a few weeks. Taking advantage of that he took a trip to Baltimore. He expects to be here for a month.

Messrs. A. Wriede and G. Leitner are now regular adv. men on the Sun newspapers. For about twelve years, they have been on the sub-list. Mr. R. McCall is a regular adv. man on the Baltimore News.

A new rotary oil-burner, Timken, was installed in Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Brushwood's home. They admire it very much, because it keeps the cellar clean and there is no longer the drudgery of carrying ashes away. The writer thinks about five deaf families have oil-burners in their basements.

A "chosen few," consisting of Kauffmans, Kresselers, Feasts, Browns and Hokemyers, held a card party at the Kauffmans' some time ago. That evening it was raining hard. They took a street car, because they could not get a taxi to take them to their homes. They could not even see through the windows. They got off on their own guesses, and to their dismay they were far beyond their addresses. While it was pouring down hard, they waded through the streets which were at times ankle or knee deep in water.

The Whildins closed their summer cottage on the Magothy River for the winter. It seems that they are the only ones fortunate to possess a summer cottage here among us in Maryland.

Mr. Herbert Leitch was fortunate to get his former job in Baltimore back. During these few years absence, he worked on his mother's farm which failed to pay, on account of drought in past years and big gales at other times. His wife and the baby twins are still on the farm, but they expect to move here soon. We are glad to have them with us again.

William J. Hayes went to Chicago to visit the World's Fair. He expects to be gone for a week or longer. He was the man who was slugged and robbed by an unknown person.

Fred C. Ludman was seriously ill for some time. He is well and we are glad to see him around. He expects to go "fairing" in Chicago soon.

James O. Amoss, a former Baltimore man, living in Washington, D. C., was a regular week-end visitor with his daughter at the North Beach near Baltimore.

October 19th, the local Frat division her baby went to Washington, D. C., to visit her relatives and Miss Ruth Atkins, of Gallaudet College.

Mr. R. McCall is considering buying a home. He went to see his father, who is a builder, for advice on houses.

October 19th, the local Frat-division held its card party at the Bond's Bakery. The affair was under the direction of Chairman Milton Freedman. A large crowd was there. Many prizes, donated by the members, were given to the three highest scorers of "500," bridge, bunco, and rummy, respectively. The committee made about twenty-three dollars clear profit. It went to the delegate fund. The Bond furnished refreshments of sandwiches and coffee, which were very good.

October 20th, a surprise-pound party was given in honor of Mrs. John Wallaces' birthday at the Wallaces'. Mr. Wallace took her out marketing on purpose to give the friends the chance of slipping into the house to surprise her on their return home. They hid themselves many times as a car which they mistook as the Wallaces' approached. They played cards, and prizes were given to the highest scorers, Mrs. Kauffman and Mr. Wriede.

October 21st, the members of the F. F. F. S. held a stage rehearsal at Mr. and Mrs. F. Rebal's home. The husbands and their children were invited to a very good supper, which was made up by the women. Everybody enjoyed the evening.

October 22d, another surprise birthday party was given to Rev. O. Whildin at his residence. Earlier in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. G. Reamy came to call on the Whildins to keep him "busy" while the friends quietly entered by way of the rear-door and hid themselves in the den on the second floor. Mrs. Whildin told Mr. Whildin that little Dick said there was a phone message for him in the den. He hurried upstairs, turned on the lights and there he received the biggest surprise of his life! All jumped up and gave him sound pats on his back—wishing him many happy birthdays. He received nice presents, especially lots of smoking tobacco, which ought to last him till his next birthday.

Rev. H. B. Waters and his wife and their daughter-in-law, Dorothy, went to Grand Rapids, Mich., last week, where Rev. Waters gave a sermon.

Out-of-town visitors who attended the N. F. S. D., No. 2, variety social last week, were Mr. Fred Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. Smith, Mr. Geo. Tripp, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Heck and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Sibert. Mrs. Sibert is going to leave for Syracuse, New York, her home town, for a couple of weeks.

MRS. LUCY MAY.

An Appeal

My father, the Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, D.D., L.H.D., realizing the necessity of caring for old and destitute deaf-mutes, rented a house in East 13th Street, New York City, for that purpose, and, after a few years of intensive and personal canvassing, was enabled to purchase, in 1885, an estate situated on the Hudson River between New Hamburg and Poughkeepsie. Here, in a handsome brick and stone edifice, on a property of one hundred acres, the Gallaudet Home furnishes a retreat for twenty-five old people, some of whom are not only deaf and dumb, but blind as well.

The location is a beautiful one, and a farm which is part of the property, furnishes milk, eggs and and fresh vegetables for the use of the residents at the Home.

The residents of the Home are of several religious denominations and come from various parts of the State of New York, although the Home is under the management of the Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes.

The Endowment Fund of this institution is invested in mortgages on property in the City of New York, but, due to the condition of real estate at the present time, the income of the Home has been so reduced that it finds itself confronted with a serious financial situation. Every economy possible has been effected, but now the Board of Trustees and the Board of Lady Managers have before them the problem of how to keep the Home in operation. To our minds it is unthinkable that we should give it up and take away the sole retreat of these people in their old age. For that reason we are trying to raise a fund of $50,000.00 to tide us over these times of stress.

Will you not help us to keep the Home in existence? Please send your gifts to me, or if you prefer, to Frederick H. Meeder, Treasurer, Room 700, 466 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

Yours sincerely,

ELIZABETH F. GALLAUDET

Meeting of the Convention

The Convention of American Instructors of the Deaf will meet at Jacksonville, Illinois, July 1-7, 1935. The convention has grown to be so large that few of the schools can accommodate the members any more. The Illinois School is one of the big schools of America, and in addition to its own buildings, will have the use of those of the State School for the Blind and the Woman's College of Jacksonville. Mr. Pope, President of the Convention, must be expecting a big crowd, for he says that two hundred rooms in a near-by hotel and rooms in private families will also be arranged for. The place chosen is convenient for the great majority of the teachers, and Supt. Cloud is sure to prove a popular host. We commend the choice of the Executive Committee.—The Kentucky Standard.

PHILADELPHIA

Friday, October 12th, was Columbus Day, a holiday but not a legal one, and it being the second Friday of the month, in which the Silent Athletic Club holds its monthly business meeting, yet it did not deter one bit the Fairy Godmother's Club card party from being a huge success. Skeptics thought it would be a flop, because all past card parties of the club were usually held on a Saturday. This particular one, held at All Souls' Parish House, drew close to a hundred people and twenty tables of various card games were in progress. As usual, there were plenty of prizes awarded to all winners. The following had first choice of the prizes in the following games: Pinochle, Mr. Lewis Long; "500," Mrs. Pearl Berk; Bridge, Mr. George H. King; Fantan, Mrs. Taffe. The rest of the prizes were distributed according to the highest score. Refreshments served by the ladies of the club brought the evening to a close.

The following Friday, the 19th, the F. G. C. held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Wolf, of Olney. Two new members were added to the roll in the person of Mrs. Pearl Berk, of West Philadelphia, and Mrs. Israel Steer, of Olney, thus bringing the club quota to the desired twenty. Mrs. Berk, who was in New York for a week, returned in time for the meeting, but Mrs. Steer was unavoidably detained from attending the meeting, owing to the death of her mother.

Among the vast crowd that took in the Theatre Guild's play, "Varieties," over in New York on Saturday evening, October 13th, was a party from Philadelphia. They were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Armor, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan G. Stern, Mrs. Rhea Mohr, Mrs. Pearl Berk, and Messrs. John A. Roach and Isaac Zeidelman. Mrs. Berk stayed over for a week, stopping at her sister's home.

The mother of Mrs. Isarel Steer (nee Fannie Weiss), passed away early on October 16th, at the Jefferson Hospital. She was fifty-six years old. Death resulted from cancer and gall bladder. Funeral services were held the next day with the interment taking place at Darby, Pa.

The father of Mr. Benjamin Adelman died recently from heart disease and leaves behind a tailoring business that may be handled by Mr. Adelman.

Mrs. Albert Messa (nee Dorothy Busch) has every cause to be proud these days as her great grandmother, Mrs. Adams, recently arrived at the ripe old age of 100.

The Kings of West Philly have moved a few doors away from their old location, being now settled at 844 South Allison Street. The old address was 836. "It is more nearer the car line," says George, and will save the wear and tear on my shoes."

A post card from the Balasas in Danville, Ky., states that they are now settled at 302 East Main Street. They report that the climate is doing their children a world of good as they are all growing fat.

Mr. Albert Messa, of Germantown, who has for so long been doing a Rip Van Winkle, seems to be fully awakened now and is doing his part for the welfare of the Philadelphia deaf. In addition to being secretary of the P. S. D. Alumni Association, he was recently elected secretary of the Local Branch of the P. S. A. D. Much should be heard from him in the near future. Congratulations!

There will be a Hallowe'en party at All Souls' Church on Wednesday, October 31st, at 8 p.m. Admission is 35 cents for adults, and 15 cents for children. Affair is for benefit of the church.

The Philadelphia Division, No. 30, N. F. S. D., is now laying plans for its annual Frat Frolic to take place on February 3d, 1935. The committee in charge of same are Messrs. Eugene A. Kier, John E. Dunner, Sylvan G. Stern, Joseph T. Tosti and LeRoy Gerhardt. Mr. James L. Jennings, last year's chairman, has been retained to lend his experience in an advisory way to the committee. Full details of the Frolic will be published later in an advertisement in this JOURNAL.

The football game between the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf and Conshohocken High School on Friday, October 19th, was cancelled by Conshohocken High, owing to Conshohocken having a scheduled league game to play which was caused by a postponement earlier in the season. There is a probability that these two teams may meet on the gridiron on the Saturday after Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. Harry Miller, Philly's only truck driver, plans to pilot his great big Mack truck to Erie, Pa., this Friday, October 26th, and will have Mr. John Stanton as his companion on the trip. John plans to give Erie a thorough going over in the hopes of finding a job. If he has no success, they will be back by Tuesday, the 30th.

Ladies and gentlemen, step up closer, please. We will present the most stupendous, the most colossal, the most—this is what you would hear (if you could hear) the barker say at any sideshow of a circus. Ditto this coming Bal Masque the Silent Athletic Club of Philadelphia, Inc., will present before you good people on Saturday evening, November 3d. Chairman Joseph Tosti has worked his fingers to the bone to make this ball about the best of the past fourteen preceding ones. Mr. Tosti has a well-rounded corps of men to assist him to put it over. There will be Messrs. John A. Roach, James Jennings and Mr. Tosti, who will have charge of the ballroom floor, ably assisted by that law-and-order man, Bouncer John Dunner. As you enter the place, you will be greeted by Mr. Robert Robinson. To get past him you must buy a ticket, provided you already have one. Once past Mr. Robinson, you next come upon Mr. Finis Reneau, in supreme command of the wardrobe department. Mr. Reneau, well versed in the art of hat checking, will, with his able lieutenants, take tender care of your coat and benny while you are enjoying yourself. Now you walk up a flight of steps (sorry, folks, but the elevator is out of order) and come upon that grand old man of the S. A. C., Mr. William Shepherd. Kindly hand him your ticket and before you know it you are one of the mob. Wait a moment! I almost forgot! If you are costumed, there is Mr. Howard Morgan on the lookout for you with a pin and a number to pin on your back. As everybody knows, it usually becomes hot after a few rounds of dancing. By inquiring of anybody, you will be escorted to Mr. Edward Evans, the only married man in Philadelphia who wears a cap and gets way with it. Mr. Evans, mathematically inclined, will have complete charge of the refreshment stand tickets. To save a lot of time and trouble, buy a strip of tickets so that you won't have to stand in line for more.

I have about explained enough to the details of the Ball. Now I'll deal with other facts for your benefit.

The Bal Masque will be held at Turner Hall, Broad and Columbia Avenues. This hall, ideally situated, is but five minutes from city hall by subway, taxi or auto. Columbia Avenue is 1700 North. It is right near the northeast corner on Broad Street, and as Turner Hall has two entrances, you are requested to use the glass-enclosed one. If you get lost, just ask any cop and you will be directed there.

The price of admission will be forty cents, quite cheap for the Bal Masque of the S. A. C. brand.

Prizes, liberal ones too, will be offered to the competing masqueraders. This applies to the prettiest, funniest and most original of the lot.

The time will be from 8 p.m. to closing, around 12 p.m. So if you want a good time, lend your presence to the Silent Athletic Club's Fifteenth Annual Ball Masque, and you won't regret it.

I thank you.

Your conductor of this column will be there masqueraded. For the benefit of the curious, you may easily spot him. He will be wearing eye-glasses, with his hair parted in the middle. He will have on a funny suit of blue serge and size No. 11 black brogans. Be careful what you do, as he will be on the lookout for news at your expense. He probably might button-hole you and make you take out a subscription for the JOURNAL.

SEATTLE

The Lutheran monthly social last night had something new in games. A drawing contest on a head-size circle furnished interesting ideas, and Sam Abrahamson's effort was voted the most original. Lacrosse was the hardest game. Mrs. A. Martin, Sam Schneider, S. Abrahamson, Mrs. Gustin and W. E. Brown took prizes in games and bridge. A Dutch lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin assisted A. W. Wright with this party.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gerson, of Kent, said the filbert nuts on their 10-acre farm furnished a nice profit, and they surmised better than pie cherries.

During the 50 to 70-mile hurricane in Seattle, over a dozen friends, headed by Miss Sophia Mullin, sprang a surprise birthday party on Mrs. Claire Reeves, Sunday afternoon, though her birthday is on the 24th of this month. Bridge, "500" and chatting took up the time till nearly eleven o'clock. At the dining table, when the tastefully-decorated and lighted cake was served with other fine refreshments, several packages of useful gifts were placed by Mrs. Reeves. The cake was baked by Miss Mullin and it was delicious. The storm subsided in the evening, after costing some lives and damaging property in this city.

On invitation of Mrs. Koberstein, the Seattle ladies met at her apartment for their monthly luncheon, October 11th. The refreshments were varied and much enjoyed. Mrs. Hagerty and Mrs. V. Smith took prizes for bridge.

The younger set like to spend an evening with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin at their big house. The other evening quite a crowd was there, playing pinochle. Liquid refreshments were served.

Everybody was taken by surprise by the marriage of Mrs. Frances Madcalf, of Everett, and Mr. Charles Frederickson, of Stanwood. They "eloped" to Bellingham and were married by a justice of the peace, October 11th. Being well known in Seattle, their many friends extend to them congratulations and best wishes. Mr. Frederickson owns a shoe-repairing shop in Stanwood, and carries a stock of shoes.

About a month ago it was reported that Miss Mabel Harris, of Spokane, and Mr. Martin Lucas, of Selah, were married. They are living in Selah, where Mr. Lucas has employment.

Mrs. Alice Hanson Jones writes to her mother, Mrs. Hanson, that she is living in Washington, D. C., and working in one of the numerous bureaus at the Capitol. She will do some traveling.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Adams are again the proud grandparents of a little girl, who arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adams in California. J. T. Bodley and Arthur Martin achieved considerable improvement on Dr. Winkel's 80-acre land on Camano Island. Mr. Bodley is the caretaker there for several months to come.

Mrs. Gromachy, of Portland, is staying with Mrs. Gustin and assisting her finish a couple of lovely quilts, Christmas gifts for Mrs. Gustin's two sons, Edward and Paul, and their wives. Mr. Gromachy is batching during his wife's absence.

Mrs. Urbana Cookson Tupper, about thirty years old, passed away October 12th. She was ailing with tuberculosis for some time. Some relatives are taking care of her two small children.

Mrs. Irma Tondervold, of Lewiston, Idaho, was in Seattle visiting her sister for a few days. She attended the Lutheran Church and met her old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Reeves, who had lived in Vanvouver while Irma was student under ex-Supt. and Mrs. Watson. Mrs. Tondervold's home is open to the deaf every month for church services under Rev. Hischke, of Spokane. She is a pleasant lady to meet.

After a hard time with poisoning in her forefinger, which had been amputated, Mrs. Cookman encountered more trials when her husband was sent to a hospital suffering from mastoids, while her two children came down with chicken pox. They live in Anacortes, about 60 miles from Seattle. Here is hoping they are all recovering.

Harry Landeryou, of Spokane, motored to Seattle and took LeRoy Bradbury back with him. LeRoy returned ten days later, saying they could not get a city permit to build a cleaning shop, so he visited instead.

A Worthy Movement

Editor of the Journal:

At last I find a movement worthy of the support of all the intelligent deaf people of the State of New York. The letter from Mr. Altor Sedlow, printed in this week's issue brought out certain facts that have too long been neglected.

There can be no time more opportune than the present for the deaf people in this State to join together in mutual support and cooperation to further our advantages and lessen or wipe out our disadvantages. Such a united group in this State will not only prove a source of welfare to the deaf in this State, but will give countless aid and support to all other national and State organizations of this sort in the country.

Every intelligent and clear-thinking individual must see the crying need for such a strong representative body in this State to act as an intermediary between the deaf people and the powers-that-be. No one can deny that heretofore there has been much discrimination against the deaf in employment, as is pointed out in Mr. Sedlow's letter. Let us take immediate steps to put ourselves on an equal basis with other citizens of this State.

I give my heartiest support to this movement and feel that the majority of my fellow New York State deaf will join me in congratulating Mr. Sedlow for putting forth his facts and suggestions in such an understanding manner, that we may all know the truth of the conditions and what steps to make as a remedy.

HAMILTON

There was an attendance of 21 members at the meeting of the Sewing Club, which was held at the home of Mrs. Gleadow, on 17th October. After an hour or so of work, a prize was offered by Mrs. Gleadow for the nearest correct guess of the weight of a pumpkin. Dorothy Adam, whose guess was within a quarter of a pound of the actual weight, was the lucky winner. Refreshments were then served and everyone had their fortunes told by "the witch."

There was a good attendance at the service in Centenary Church on the 21st, when Mr. Gleadow continued the series of Old Testament lessons with the first five of the Ten Commandments, reading from Exodus 20 and Romans 12:1-15. Miss Tole, of Toronto, gracefully rendered the hymn, "Nearer the Cross Each Day I Go." The visitors included Mrs. L. B. Moynihan, Kitchener; Mrs. Robertson, Preston; and Miss Tole and Messrs. Richardson and Daniels, of Toronto.

Mrs. Moynihan spent the week-end of October 20th-22d in Hamilton as the guest of Mrs. Gleadow and Mrs. Adam, and took in the Hamilton social on Saturday.

Mrs. Robertson, of Preston, is presently in the city and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor for a few weeks. Mrs. Robertson's friends here are pleased to see her looking so much better.

Mrs. H. Whealey, of Toronto, was the guest of Mrs. Howard Breen over Saturday night, and went to Brantford on Sunday to attend Mr. Jaffray's service there.

Mrs. Crocker spent the night at Miss Nye's home, and she and Miss Nye went to Brantford on Sunday with Mr. Goodall's party in his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Gleadow had a houseful of guests over Saturday night, among whom were Mr. Goodall and his pretty little daughter, Velma.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Walker, Toronto, were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. DuMoulin.

The Hamilton Association of the Deaf held a very successful Halloween masquerade and social in the P. M. Co's hall, on Saturday, October 20th. There was an attendance of about 75, the greater number of whom were in fancy costumes. Two of the officials of the P. M. Co. kindly acted as judges of the costumes and the prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies, first prize, Mrs. Robertson of Preston (bride); second, Dorothy Adam, Hamilton (early Victorian girl); best comic costume, Mrs. H. Whealey, Toronto (little girl in rompers).

Gentlemen: first, James Ready, Hamilton (Mae West); second, Mr. Chester, Hamilton (Eastern prince); comic costume, Cecil Murtell, Hamilton (the village idiot).

Mr. Ready gave a really wonderful impersonation of Mae West. Not only in the costume, with the long long, trailing skirt, and the large hat, worn rakishly on one side, showing the blonde curls, but even the way of standing and walking, and all the little mannerisms of the famous screen star to the very life.

Mr. Murtell would make a good comedian, and his impersonation of "the village idiot" was too funny for words.

Mrs. Robertson made a very charming bride, while Mrs. Taylor, who was the bridegroom, was so well disguised that she was not at first recognized by her friends.

Mr. Chester was very imposing as an Eastern prince, while his little son, Herbert, scampered around as a cat. Mrs. Carl Harris looked sweet and natural as "an old-fashioned lady," while Mr. Harris was a gay and gallant "Spanish troubadour."

Misses Peggy Gleadow and Velma Goodall and Harold Gleadow made very attractive "gipsy girls," while Miss Helen Barr wore a genuine Ukrainian costume, beautifully embroidered.

It will be regretted that Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grooms arrived too late for the judging of costumes, else they and also Miss Evelyn Durant would surely have been awarded prizes. Miss Durant was an "Eastern princess" and Mrs. Grooms her "lady-in-waiting," while Mr. Grooms was gorgeous as "the Merchant of Venice." All three costumes were the work of Mrs. Grooms' clever fingers.

The rest of the evening was spent in dancing, games and story-telling and serving of refreshments.

The visitors present included Mr. and Mrs. H. Grooms, Mr. and Mrs. James Tate, Mrs. H. Whealey, Mrs. George Elliott, Mrs. Crocker, the Misses Evelyn Durant, Freda Lockett, Sole, Morrison, Lowson, Boulton, and Velma Goodall; Messrs. Jaffray, Goodall, Angas, Lee, Daniels, McPeake and Richardson, all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher, London; Mrs. Moynihan, Kitchener; Mrs. Robertson, Preston; and Mr. Howard Lloyd, Brantford.

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

A reception in honour of Dr. H. Amoss, acting superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, Mrs. Amoss, Mr. G. H. Holton, administrator; Mrs. Holton and family was held at the school in Belleville Thursday evening, 23d October, by the Association of Teachers and Instructors of the O. S. D.

KITCHENER, ONT.

On Wednesday, 17th October, about a dozen friends went down to Mrs. Schaefer's place, a few miles out of Kitchener, and enjoyed an hour of Bible study.

Afterwards, Miss Margaret Kaufman was given a bridal shower—a load of parcels being laid at her feet. Mrs. C. Golds, on behalf of the visitors, gave a lovely address and wished the prospective bride the best of luck and a long and happy married life.

Miss Kaufman responded, thanking her friends for their good wishes and gifts.

The gifts consisted of a beautiful tea-set and a glass water-set. Afterwards games were enjoyed and the evening ended with the serving of light refreshments. A very enjoyable time was had by all.

On 20th October, Miss Margaret Kaufman was married to Mr. George Pepper, of London. Mr. and Mrs. Pepper will take up residence in London. Mrs. Pepper will be greatly missed here; but what is Kitchener's loss is London's gain.

Allan Nahrgang and T. S. Williams tramped over the country recently, hunting for nuts. They stopped at Absalom Martin's parents' place for dinner, and at his brother Amos' place for supper.

The farm looks lovely in the autumn, and the outing was much enjoyed, though they were very tired on their return home after their 13-mile round.

Allan Nahrgang gets good news from his two boys, who are at the Belleville School. They say they have good times and enjoy their lessons, and find the new master very kind and understanding to everyone at the school.

The ladies of the S. F. L. Club, an auxiliary of the Portland Division, No. 41, N. F. S. D., invited their husbands and escorts to a fine banquet, in honor of the fourteenth anniversary of its founding. The affair was held at the Norton Hotel, one of Portland's fine hotels. After everybody was well filled up, Mr. W. F. Cook, president of the club, called on all former presidents of the auxiliary to make a speech, then Mr. C. H. Linde, secretary of the Portland Frats, gave an interesting talk on women being stronger in brains with ideas than the men. Others were called on to tell stories. Everybody went home near midnight well satisfied all had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kreidt drove up to Salem, Ore., recently to see the latter's brother.

Some Portlanders are wondering why the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL is not at the Public Library. If much interested in that popular paper, just see the writer of this column, and get one year's subscription for $2, mailed regularly every week. Six months for $1.

Mrs. Eva Webb, of Pendleton, Ore., was a recently visitor in town, the guest of Mrs. Daisy Johnson. These two laides were schoolmates from the Salem school. Mrs. Webb also called to see Mrs. Frances Nelson, but found the latter out. She rode down here with her brother, Glen Snider. The latter called on the Nelsons, Sunday, October 14th. Glen was a former boarder at Mrs. Nelson's home, while he was attending the dental college in Portland two years ago.

Mr. Coffin, father of Charlotte Coffin, underwent a serious operation recently, but is now home and doing nicely. Mr. Coffin is a street car conductor in Portland.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jack, of Chehalis, Wash., were glad to hear they may take in our watch night party around December 31st. Mr. Jack said business is good at his shop, more than many can say, as many are out of work in Portland. Late visitors at the Jacks' home were Mr. Goetz, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell, Mr. and Mrs. Sheatsley, and Mrs. Bertram. All from Puget Sound. The last named was on her way to Portland and Salem, visiting old friends there.

A few friends were invited to a fine dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Easterbrook on Sunday, October 14th, in honor of Mr. Easterbrook's birthday. While the ladies were chatting away the afternoon, the men folks played "500" rummy. Mr. Easterbrook received some nice presents.

Miss Marie Walsh is now back with the Reichles, being tired of batching. She is employed at the big Muir & Franks Department Store. A Miss Cupper is also boarding there.

Mr. W. S. Hunter has just finished harvesting his grape crop, which was very big, and fair prices were paid. Mr. Alfred Goetz, of Tacoma, helped boxing up the grapes. He is considered a fast worker.

EPHPHETA SOCIETY

The Ephpheta Society Rotation Club had its third session at the home of Catherine Gallagher on Tuesday evening, October 23d. Cards "as you like it" were indulged in. Prizes for Bunco went to Rita Rigali, Irene Bohn, Mary Quartermus, Carmel Persico, Mary Costello, James Caligueri, Ruth Pagliaro. Bridge winners were Clarence Wilson, of California; Molly Higgins and Paul DiAnno. A royal spread was given by the hostess, assisted by Irene Bohn. The next affair is scheduled for Friday, November 2d, at the home of Molly Higgins, 718 West Side Ave., Jersey City.

The November meeting of the society is postponed to November 13th on account of Election Day falling on the first Tuesday. Election of officers will take place. Nominations will be made from the floor this time, a departure from the old custom.

On Saturday evening, October 27th, the home of the popular Calls was given a house-warming festivity, that Joe and petite Peggy will treasure the memories of as long as they live.

Their home, 159 Meserole Avenue, in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, is a solid substantial three-story residence, the top floor of which, thoroughly modernized, and with every feature that goes to make up an ideal home, was filled with guests, who enjoyed a fine collation that put all in a merry mood to enjoy the speeches, games and other incidents of the evening's delights.

Mr. Call's parents occupy the lower part of the residence, which is their property, and both Call-pere and Call Jr., are local boys that have made good.

The affair was arranged by Mr. Tarlen and Mrs. Browne. The Manhattan guests found the new Eighth Avenue Subway extension to Greenpoint Avenue a very great convenience.

During the evening the couple were presented with a beautiful hand-carved mahogany commode. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tarlen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Frankenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Baca, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Seibold, Misses Sexton, Costello, Studt, Boatwright, Mrs. Agnes C. Browne, Messrs. Pach, DeLuca, Bloom, Block, Romero, Mortillier and Kane.

On Sunday, October 21st, which was like a summer day with a clear sky and warm sun, twelve members of the Clark D. M. Club were on their way to Freeport early in the morning, and soon aboard the good ship "Caliban," headed for the deepsea fishing banks. They pulled in some ninety porgies, and then went after bigger game—bluefish; six fishing at one time and the rest "speaking easy" in the cabin. Every hour they took turns and before the day was over, they had fourteen bluefish, ranging from four to seven pounds. The members taking part in the fishing and probably still eating the fish, are Messrs. Barr, Blumenthal, L. Cohen, Demmerle, Gordon, Gillen, Haberstroh, Kreigshaber, Lieberz, Moster, Murtaugh and Ratheim. Murtaugh won a prize of five dollars for landing the largest, a beautiful bluefish of nearly 7½ pounds. Lieberz, who first ate his lunch so no one else could do it for him, was the last to pick up his rod, but came out as winner for catching the largest number of fish. Blumenthal, who had never held a fishing pole before, did not get a bite, and felt almost heart-broken and declared it was his first—and last—fishing party; until four o'clock when he got a fair-sized blue, and ten minutes later, another one. He is now anxious to know when the next fishing party will go. Kreigshaber caught his share in short order and withdrew to the cabin for a nap. Later the boys checking up the fish, missed four and are wondering if he ate them for his lunch. Ratheim was especially suspicious; he knew perfectly well he had caught fifteen or more, but he was able to account for only four or five porgies in his bag. The boys had succeeded in persuading Haberstroh to join them after a long absence from the club; now he has promised to be with them more frequently. Demmerle was more interested in seeing that the boys were warm than in catching fish; he had along his famous medicine chest. The day was warm, but the boys said they were chilly—after they saw what Demmerle had brought. Barr, Cohen, Gillen, Gordon and Moster all pulled up a fair number of fish. Arrangements have been made for another fishing trip late in November for 'cod-fish.
